Studebaker salutes 50 years of Canada's progress

Now, at the half-turn of the century this great Canadian industry pledges anew its faith in Canada's future

FIFTY years ago, when this modern era was just getting under way, Studebaker already was nearly fifty years old—already solidly set among the world's most progressive manufacturers of transportation vehicles.

Today, as the century swings across the half-way mark, Studebaker is firmly established as one of Canada's outstanding automotive producers.

Here in Studebaker's busy Hamilton factories, Canadian craftsmen and Canadian management are working wholeheartedly together to build and to broaden the world's high opinion of Canadian skill and enterprise.

Month after month, as thousands of Studebaker motor cars and trucks stream off the assembly lines, Studebaker is doing its part to encourage Canada's domestic economy and to bolster Canada's increasing importance in export markets.

On this occasion of the half-turn of the twentieth century, Studebaker of Canada looks back with pride... views the present with satisfaction... looks forward with abiding faith to the continuing growth and prosperity of Canada and all Canadians.
